THE BARRE DAILY TIMES

TUESDAY, MARCH 15, 1910.

Entered at the post office at Barre as second-class matter.

Published every week-day afternoon.
Subscription: One year, $3.00; one month, 25 cents; single copy, 1 cent.
Frank E. Langley, Publisher.

The average daily circulation of the Barre Daily Times for the week ending Saturday was copies, the largest paid circulation of any daily paper in this section.

The little village of Wilder, Vt., has now been introduced to the mysteries of a lockout.

"Young Knox goes to work." With that, let him work out his own salvation, "dad or no-dad," as he puts it.

If Dr. Cook comes back to the U. S. A. so soon after his severe denunciation, he will go where angels fear to tread.

And now they are trying to start a Roosevelt back-fire by creating enthusiasm for the return of former Vice President Fairbanks. It won't work.

Mayne Burke was right there with the punch—the knockout punch—when it came to putting on a boxing match in Burlington. In other words, he "seen his duty and done it."

A drift of snow twenty feet deep rests against the piazza of the Summit House on Mount Mansfield, and the management is almost able to announce sugar-on-snow for next July.

The house where Daniel Webster was born in New Hampshire is going under a foreclosure. New Hampshire ought to have more pride than to let this property lose its historic interest.

Next in importance to the definition of whiskey is the definition of a "drunk" as a person "found intoxicated on the streets of Ludlow," given by the Ludlow Tribune. We can't see that the Ludlow "drunk" differs from the average.

Editor Greene of the St. Albans Messenger follows up his written protest against bad cooking with the spoken denunciation at a meeting in Burlington. Says he, "Bad cooking drives many husbands to satisfy the protesting stomach with stimulants." Amen and amen!

Apparently Jamestown, N. Y., might have been spared the two disastrous fires which followed the blaze of Saturday night, by the exercise of proper vigilance, for the two fires of yesterday morning started in the ruins of the first. There is a warning to other fire departments.

The Canadians are netting our fish, and we are barred from fishing in the lake. Looks as though Vermont and Canada might get together and regulate the fish business satisfactorily to both sides of the border.—Swanton Courier.

In other words, there is a chance for real reciprocity in a case where Vermont is getting the small end of the deal continually.

The failure of Barre granite to get the Hudson-Fulton memorial contract in New York, or even to get a chance to figure on it, leads to the hope that the Vermont Champlain commission won't let their contract go out of the state. Barre granite and Barre workmanship are the natural things to expect in this state memorial to be erected at some point on Lake Champlain. If all people could see that famous Burns memorial in this city, they would agree to that. It is, therefore, left for the Barre bidders to present reasonable figures when the time comes for the request for bids.

A DANGEROUS SPOT.

That steps have been taken to eliminate the grade crossings over the two railroad tracks at Dodge's bridge between this city and Montpelier will be welcome news to the public of the two cities and Berlin. The place has long been recognized as a danger spot for automobilists and teams, because of the closeness of the two crossings, taken with the added danger of the intersecting electric railroad track and the covered highway bridge, not to mention billboards, which are very poorly placed, except for attracting attention. The whole combined to make a troublesome place; and the wonder is that some serious accidents have not taken place at Dodge's bridge. The travel on this thoroughfare is increasing each year and is bound to grow more and more, making the proposed changes an urgent necessity.

SAVING THE HOTEL AT BRANDON.

The public-spirited people of Brandon, who are subscribing to a fund whereby they hope to keep their hotel property from being transformed into stores and other purposes, deserve to have a satisfactory culmination of their aims. If the hotel should be abandoned, it would leave the community poorly prepared to entertain the considerable amount of summer business, which comes to Brandon each season, and the place would in consequence lose a good income. Realizing this, the people of the town are bestirring themselves to an unusual degree in order to keep abreast of the new movement which is spreading through Vermont. Just now many cities and towns are agitating the erection of new and modern hotels for the accommodation of increased throngs, which are surely to come to Vermont; and it would be folly for Brandon to sacrifice its equipment already on the ground and in fair condition. Brandon has a much better start than its friendly competitors for this summer business, provided the people of that town rally to the support of the present project to purchase the hotel by stock subscriptions. They have done well thus far and should not quit until the required amount is in sight.

Barre's Pair of Pants.

The esteemed Barre Times announces that "the balance of the trousers left over from the company's Saturday sale will be closed out." What a rush among the sans culottes of the Dialect city there must have been when this pair of pants was originally put up for sale.—St. Albans Messenger.

Small Accounts

Starting a small account with as now and gradually adding to it is better than waiting until you have a large sum to deposit. You are making sure of the small amount and four per cent interest is adding to the total all the while. If you have no money in the bank, this is a good time to begin.

MONTPELIER.

Shady Hill Creamery Is To Resume Operations.

The creamery at Shady Hill in Middlesex, which has been closed for several years, is to be reopened April 1. J. G. Turnbull of Orleans has bought the buildings and will install new machinery, while Herbert Bridge will operate the plant. The creamery was first run as a cooperative concern and later was bought by a Newport concern and run in connection with other creameries. This plan was unsuccessful and the machinery was at last sold to pay the bill. The outlook is good for a prosperous business, with Mr. Turnbull as owner. He bought against the advice of farmers, who had seen how the business came out before, but Mr. Turnbull feels sure he can make it successful.

Montpelier high school won from Northfield high last night in a fast game of basketball, on the latter's floor, by the score of 32 to 26.

V. W. Jewett had one thumb cut off at the first joint last week while sawing a board. His thumb, in some way, got caught in the circular saw and before he knew it his thumb was amputated.

Fred Andrus, superintendent of the Montpelier and Barre Traction and Power company, with Mrs. Adams, is to spend several weeks in the South and on the coast for the benefit of the latter's health.

Vera May, the infant daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Leonard of West Berlin, was found dead in bed Sunday morning. The child had been ill two or three days, but was considered better the night before. The funeral was held this afternoon, Rev. R. C. T. McKenle officiating.

The annual meeting of the Vermont club was held last night at the Union school building and the following officers were elected: President, William Lee; vice-president, Raymond Sargent; secretary, Annie Menard; treasurer, Martin Teja. The club has been in existence six years, having been founded by Fred J. Browncombe, and the past year has been one of its most successful ones.

Work is progressing well on the installation of the new heating and ventilating apparatus at the State House. Twenty-five men are employed on the job and they are now excavating for the ducts, which will lead the pipes to the main building and the wings. There will be three ducts, each is to be lined with concrete and through these the galvanized iron flues will run. The work of digging the cellar for the power house has been held up until the ledge can be blasted out. Work on the House and Senate chambers will soon be commenced and they have been dismantled ready for the workmen to begin. An old line leading to the House of Representatives was found, which can be used instead of putting in a new one and from that five flues will distribute the warm air through the House, and from a similar one on the opposite side of the chamber, five more will issue, making ten radiators in all.

Local consumers are having a hard time getting sufficient soft coal to carry on their business. One of the heaviest users is the Consolidated Lighting company, which has been unable to get that which it ordered some time ago. The Consolidated and Vermont Electric companies have had a great demand on their services since the stone sheds resumed work and, although the 5,000 horsepower provided is usually sufficient, the water plants are being worked to their full capacity and the steam plants have been called into use to provide for the deficiency. The scarcity of soft coal seems to be due to the railroad companies seizing whatever passes over their lines because of threatened labor troubles on the railroads. Manager Davidson of the Consolidated Lighting company yesterday received the promise of 100 tons immediately.
